I Should Worry.

"We are no longer engaged!"
Said she through the telephone
In a most decided tone,
That was enough to make him freeze.
"All right!" he answered, "ring off
please!"

Miss Elizabeth Childs left this morning for Lexington to attend the summer term at State University.

MISTAKE CORRECTED

The Maysville Chautauqua Will Be Held at Beechwood Park This Year.

It has been wrongly stated that the Chautauqua would be held at a different place from last year, but we are glad to inform the public that it will be held Friday afternoon and established head
year.

The Chautauqua is going to be bigger and better this year than ever before.

LET UNCLE SAM
GIVE YOU THE FACTS

Government reports show the steady output of coal during the last few years has made the dealers push for wider markets. We are going to get more trade—your trade—by giving you a greater value for your money.
You will never get out of debt unless you buy wisely.

SQUARE DEAL MAN.

BECKHAM

Hammered the Aged Office-Seeking Gov. McCreary and Handed Stanley a Few
Neat Punches

In His Saturday's Maysville Speech
Talked For Over Two Hours

Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, of Frankfort, spoke to a large crowd at the courthouse here Saturday afternoon
in his interest as a Democratic candidate for the senatorial nomination at the coming state primary election, August 1.

Mr. Beckham arrived in Maysville
Friday afternoon and established headquarters at the Central Hotel, where he was visited by scores of his enthusiastic adherents, who claim that the former Kentucky Chief Executive will pull more votes in this (Mason) county
than McCreary and Stanley combined.

A. G. Sulser, chairman of the Mason County Democratic Committee, introduced Governor Beckham.

His speech was of two hours
duration. He touched upon the protective tariff as a rich man's law and spoke strongly for the direct election of United States Senators, which, he said, was first advocated by W. J.
Bryan.

Mr. Beckham then paid his respects to Governor James B. McCreary's candidacy for Senator, and declared the Governor could be better employed if he remained at the new Executive Mansion at Frankfort, discharging his official duties, instead of chasing around after another office at his advanced age,

after an office holding record of a third of a century.

For more than an hour the former Governor discussed the candidacy of his other opponent, Congressman A. O.
Stanley. He declared Stanley was brought out by the whisky element and that there was an understanding between McCreary and Stanley to try to cause his (Beckham's) defeat. He explained at length his record while Governor of Kentucky and contrasted the condition of the state's finances under McCreary's present administration and his own.

He gave an account of his work in the interest of temperance in Kentucky. He declared his race was a fight against the liquor element, and that old Kentucky is rapidly getting away from her whisky-controlled habit.

He emphatically denied all the charges made against him by Congressman Stanley and reviewed at length his own administration as Governor and public career since leaving the governor's chair. He warned the voters to beware of a liquor-controlled ballot.

Mr. Beckham expressed his confidence in winning the nomination in August and the election in November.

ENGINEER BURWELL KILLED

When Covington Commuter Was Ditched Near Dayton—Was Oldest Engineer on this Division of the C. & O.

Yesterday afternoon about 12:15
o'clock as the Covington-Silver Grove commuter train on the C. & O. was going west and about 2 miles East of Dayton side-wiped a freight train which hadn't cleared the track and threw the engine and coach off the track, killing Engineer J. J. Burwell, and probably fatally injuring the fireman.

No further particulars are at hand
about the accident.

Engineer Burwell was the oldest engineer on this division on the C. & O.

In the course of his career he has run over and killed more than a dozen persons, including his own son and Mrs.
Moses Moore at South Ripley.

He ran the first engine and construction train through Dover on July 3rd, 1888.

John B. Shaw and Shannon Hall were on the first train.

On June 14, 1913, Mr. Shaw had both legs crushed off, three days later Mr.
Hall's body was badly mangled, and yesterday, June 14th, 1914, Mr. Burwell was killed, all three hurt within one year's time.

MARRIED SATURDAY NIGHT

Miss Allene Glascock and Mr. John C.
Ronan Happily United By County
Judge Rice.

Miss Allene J. Glascock and Mr. John
C. Ronan were married here Saturday night by County Judge W. H. Rice.
Though they had been going together
for some time the event was unexpected to their many friends and relatives and came in the way of a surprise to all.

Miss Glascock is one of the city's most charming and popular young ladies, and one that is universally liked and highly esteemed by her many friends. In keeping with her social popularity is her musical talent. For the last several years she has been conducting one of the most successful
music schools in Maysville.

Mr. Ronan is a promising man of the younger generation who has won for himself much esteem and trust in his business pursuits in this city. He is at present engaged in opening up a tooth-
stone and marble shop in Covington.

The young couple have the intention of making their future home in Lebanon, O. We heartily congratulate both and predict a success for Mr. Ronan in his business and much happiness for he and his bride in their mutual venture.

VUDORIZE, IT COSTS
LITTLE

From $2.75 to $5.75 will equip the average house. They let in light and shut out glare
They last.

Their durability is enormously increased by double warps at both edges and---in the case of very wide shades---by double warps at intervals throughout their width.

And they can't loosen or come undone at the ends, for their light strong wooden strips are lock-stitched with fish net twine which won't rot. Their raising cords won't twist nor stick in pulleys.

They're right. They keep their newness, for they're indelibly stained—not painted nor dipped.
They measure a drop of full 8 feet as compared with the 7½ foot drop possessed by ordinary shades, which are as expensive as Vudors yet lack the patented Vudor special features. In all sizes, varying widths and colors.

Write or telephone us NOW, let us measure your porch and tell you just exactly what Vudorizing
it will cost.

*****
PROPHECY—CLASS OF 1914.
*****

[Written by Lena Wells Lykins and Nellie Grant (with apologies to Shakespeare). Published (with apologies to Prof. Chace).]

CHARACTERS:

First Witch—Lena Wells Lykins.
Second Witch—Nellie Grant.
Third Witch—Anna Calvert.
Time—Midnight.
Scene—Heath, dark and gloomy.

(First and Second Witch enter and go weirdly around the cauldron.)

First Witch—When shall we three meet again?

Second Witch—When the hurly burly's done

When the battle's fought and won.

Third Witch—(Enters.) How now ye secret gypsies and midnight hags

What wist ye do?

First Witch—Oh, Sister, we must idle here unless some mortals give us work to do.

Third Witch—(Enters.) How now at furious rate

A messenger I met who now doth wait

To hear what you shall calculate

Will be the 1914 Senior's fate.

Second Witch—Oh! Ye people down below

This is all to let you know

What will be seen

Of the Class of '14?

In yon kettle creep things

Horned, slimy and with stings;

These, when boiled with magic art,

All their honors will depart.
Then this bubbling, boiling mass /
Makes the future of the Class.
All—Dabble, dabble toil and trouble,
Fire burns and cauldron bubble.
As round and round and round we go
The fateful vapors will we breathe
Stomping o'er this cauldron dross
That with a horrid hiss doth seethe.

Second W.—My Sister now inspired doth see

What the Class' fate will be?

The glittering pageant of the years
Doth pass before her eye

She speaks with utterance fast
Hark! what she doth prophesy.

Sister, Sister, what do you see?

First W.—Now I behold a college ground

And under the trees I see

A Dema with hair of reddish brown
And that Dema is Marian D.

She has won much fame and renown
And added many stars to her crown.

Second W.—The Second Honor's fate
Can you not next relate?

First W.—My vision now removes to a wicked heathen land

There Helen Stevens organized a loving christian band

In dark and gloomy Congo lives this missionary maid

With loving kindness giving carai-bals much needed aid.

Second W.—Do you not a member see
Who a scientist will be?

First W.—Oh, yes, there's their President Bauer

Who'll lead wherever he goes,
He physics he will preach,

In chemistry he will teach;
He will never say "I don't know"

For George, like a walking debate,
Will argue from early 'till late,

And pick all the flaws
He can with his jaws

And ever shed tears for his fate.

Second W.—Who of all the rest doth know that quiet homelife is best?

First W.—All at once I hear a song

"Tis sweet as sweet can be
It sounds like dear Miss Ann

But little changed is she
She now reigns as queen supreme

In a Southern mansion fair
There sorrow cast no shadow or beam

With Lyle she has no thought of care.
Second W.—Who among the large Class will
To live on Nature's daisies and fill?
First W.—Ah, now, in the vapor I see Crawford a farmer will be,
A sunburnt face with a straw hat's
shade
Of a man who follows the plowman's trade
But after many years of honest toil
He'll reap his reward from earth's rich soil.

Second W.—The next one you should see

Will be no other than E. A. D.

First W.—Well, now, I enter a studio,
And there, with brush in hand
Sits Emma, who is painting—
And her pictures are simply grand.

Here in art's domain I see a pictured face

In awe the golden letters nenth the frame I trace

A countenance familiar do I now behold

A portrait of Mary Bacon by R.
Deloid.

Second W.—It will be a shame
Unless some one works for Uncle Sam.

First W.—A great big stalwart soldier boy

Hornee Clark will be
And when he sees the enemy
Indeed he will not flee

But straight up to the foe he'll go and shoot 'em through and through

He'll be an honor to the school
And the good red, white and blue.

Second W.—Of blue eyed Daisy
You can not tell.

First W.—This lady is a wonder,
Miss Chalkley is her name;

But what she does to German,
I tell you it's a shame;

Instead of reading novels,
As other school girls do,

She goes and gets a "William Tell"
And reads it through and through

But somehow I've an inkling,
You know it I suppose

By the time this century's over She'll write a German prose.

Second W.—Ah, I hear a cry,
As if angels were near by.

First W.—Walking the streets of a great city

I see the villain of the Class reformed
by woman's love. Our naughty Al

now leads a great Salvation Army
He was saved by Evelyn's love

To enjoy a mansion above.

Second W.—Now do tell what is
To become of "Sunshine Liz."

First W.—This unapproprated blessing
Will go single all her life

She will never have a hubby
She will never be a wife

Miss Higgins she is doomed to be
Throughout the twentieth century.

Second W.—Whose shall be the fate
To struggle for his State?

First W.—Now what melodious eloquence doth fill my ear

That orator, that speaker, now his name I hear

That sweet, mild voice doth call up memories dear
And if you'd know the reason, listen,
hear:
'Tis Nelson Ellis, who now represents
his State,
And he is well deserving of such a glorious fate.

Second W.—Oh, now, please tell
What you can of silly Nell.

First W.—We wish to tell the public
Of this young lady's fame—
She never broke a rule at school,
Perfection was her aim;

But in later years of life
This salutary pious creature,
Will be a high school teacher.

Second W.—Now do not be contrary
But tell what will become of Mary (Matthews.)

First W.—Now dainty little maiden
We playfully see what's yours;

When you are happily married
You'll go on concert tours;

A musician will your hubby be
Of wondrous skill and fame

If you practice up and see
Why you will be the same.

First W.—Your future is very plain to see

So don't get scared and pale,
For in the near sweet hie and bye,
You'll do a wedding veil.

Second W.—Who will win fame
By writing her name?

First W.—Then Lorene Dryden an authoress

Next appears on the scene
Out in the wide world of fame

Lorene is doing her best
In writing of interesting love poems

She will score far ahead of the rest
Second W.—Is there no Steven-son
Who will be a wife?

First W.—Yes there's the Scottie Stevenson

So happy and free
First she'll be a suffragette

Then a nurse she'll be
And listen to the field war,

To nurse the Yankee soldiers there
Where she finds her Mr. Clark

And nurses him to health and life
Then leaves the war and strife

And she becomes a happy wife.

Second W.—Now to us repeat
Of the Senior Athlete.

First W.—Ziegler's athletic form now comes within my view

Divinely fair is he and most entrancing too

All Olympia's athletes the whole excited crowd

Now he has defeated with boasting long and loud.

Second W.—What could better amuse us

Than to hear about the mused?
First W.—At the foot of the towering mountain

Near the course of the babbling
brook

By a sweet secluded fountain
Sits George with a poet's book

Now he hears the wings of the Muse
Bringing fancies for his inspiration

O rats! 'tis the bees in the flowers

Caused George to be sadly mistaken.
Second W.—Who in the future day
Will star in a play?
First W.—We'll see the actress of the Class
When by the Asior House we pass,
There Isabelle will always dine,
In New York her head will shine;
Next week she sure will cut a caper
The leading role in "A Scrap o' Paper."

Second W.—Who will be taken
By the charms of Mary Bacon?

First W.—Then comes dear Mary Bacon
Who will never be forsaken,
For by her smile so sweet,
When I'd she chance does meet;

His heart she subtly amashes
Till it crumbles into ashes;
Right on his knees he'll go
And exclaim "I love you so."

Second W.—What of dear old Mary Always so lively and cheery?

First W.—Mary Parker, kind and true,

And loved by not a few,
Shall be a maid of worthy name
And by dancing win great fame;

The Snail Drag and Castle Wulk,
Of this her husband will not talk;

Instead he loves the rural life,
Where there's no want or strife

And through every hour and day
They're as happy as birds in May.

Second W.—What do you think of that?

You have told us nothing about
"Pratt"

First W.—He'll lead the Oleo Club
at Yule,

With a voice like a nightingale;
Her class will be proud of her name

For by singing she'll win glorious fame.

Conclusion—
To you who've read this to the end,
Thanks of the witches we extend;

If it pleases you to some degree
Your appreciation let the next class
see;

We have done our best
And to you we leave the rest.

DEATH CALLS FORMER DOVER CITIZEN.

(Mt. Sterling Gazette.)
Mr. Benjamin Tapp, a native of Clark County, and a respected citizen, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Claude Goodpastor, in Jessamine County, of infirmities incident to old age. The body was taken to Winchester and buried in the Lockanne graveyard on the Buck-ville pike. Mr. Tapp was 80 years of age. He is survived by two daughters and three sons, Mrs. Goodpastor, of Jessamine County, and Mrs. Ella Green, of this county; Miles Tapp, of Jessamine County; James and Ben Tapp, Jr., of Clark County. His wife died about two years ago.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time,"
says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place,
"I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles.
I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more,
and I don't have to go to bed. In fact,
I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you.

TOBACCO ASSOCIATION

Of the United States To Hold Great
Meeting at Lexington Next Week.

(Lexington Herald.)

The program for the meeting here
on June 18-19 of the Tobacco Association of the United States has been issued by the executive committee, composed of Dr. S. H. Bailey, Messrs. W. L.
Petty and J. D. Clark. The delegates will be met at the depot by automobiles
and taken to Elmendorf for luncheon, followed by a sight-seeing trip over the big farm. In the evening a banquet will be served at the Phoenix Hotel for which
the following program has been arranged:

Toastmaster—Judge Kerr.

Address of Welcome—John Skain,

Agricultural Development of the South—F. C. Powell, Queen & Crescent railroad.

Relation of Banks to Tobacco Men—

(To select his own subject)—J. N.
Candee.

The Thoroughbred Horse—Col. Jack Chinn.

Lexington Tobacco Market—Silas
Shelburne.

The Night Rider—J. D. Clark.

Kentucky—W. O. Davis.

On Friday, June 19, another automobile trip will be taken through the county, returning for a lunch at the trotting
track given by the Burley Tobacco Warehouse Company. Immediately following the luncheon there will be a show of fine horses, to some races.

Two Big Steers to Be Served.

O. H. Berryman and the Phoenix
Hotel Company have each purchased a tremendous steer, weighing between 1,700 and 1,800 pounds, one to be served to the tobacco men at Elmendorf, au-
the other to be served especially to them during their stay at the Hotel.

These animals are among the finest in the State.

DO IT NOW

Maysville People Should Not Wait Until
It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious.
The slightest symptoms often give place
to chronic disorders and the sufferer
may slip gradually into some serious
form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells, if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay.

Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home:

Mrs. S. Neal, 497 W. Second St., Maysville, Ky., says: "One of my family had a great deal of trouble from his back and kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills made him better and he always praises them."

Mrs. Neal is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother
you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Neal recommends—the remedy backed by home
testimony, 50c all stores. Foster-Mil-

Public Sale

We will sell at Public Auction at 2
p. m., Saturday June 20th, the Suburban home of Mr. D. A. Emmett, located on the Maysville and Germantown turnpike just outside the city limits. This is a nice two story frame house of seven rooms with halls, bath and water
in the house, also small house on corner of lot that rents to good advantage,
together with about two acres of land.
There is a variety of fruit of all kinds on this place. A splendid place for chicken raising and truck gardening.

Mr. Emmett has bought a farm and moved his family to it, and has decided to sell this very desirable home. With the extension of the street car line in the West End, and the many improvements that are going on in this section of our city, we think we can see a fine opportunity for an investment in this West End property. This home will be sold on easy terms which will be announced on day of sale. Here is your chance to buy a nice home at your own price.

WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

U. S. Army Has Ten Officers Training in France

WASHINGTON.—The movement of American troops to Mexico brings to notice the fact that ten United States army officers, representing all branches of the service, are on duty in France for instruction in French military training. They are there by permission of the French government, given upon request of the United States, and are welcomed in the friendliest spirit. It appears to be the intention of the war department to have six officers continuously on service in France, so that French experience and French military science may from year to year be available for the United States army. Occasionally an English officer or officers from the Balkan and smaller states have had permission to serve with one or another of French regiments, but it would seem that no foreign army, not even the Spaniards, has during this generation had such opportunities to know the military system as the Americans now have.

Capt. W. A. Castle is in an infantry regiment at Orleans; Capt. N. Marshall, Lieut. A. T. Bishop with other regiments at Chalons, Surgeon T. J. Martin at the cavalry school at Saumur, Capt. F. H. Pope in the quartermaster's school and Capt. Frank Parker at the war college. Capt. Morton Henry of the American quartermaster's division and E. S. Greble and Honeycutt of the artillery have just arrived to replace three other American officers and three others are expected. The three do not get into the French service until October. In the meantime they are required to live in French families and perfect their knowledge of French. Captain Parker, in the war college, the exclusive school of higher strategy, has probably the rarest opportunity and one not shared by any other foreign officer. Eighty French officers are admitted annually out of from 400 to 500 applicants who take the severe competitive examination. Years of study are devoted by the French officer in preparation for this examination, because all selections for the general staff are made from graduates of the war college, and no French officer need expect a high command unless he has gone successfully through this training in the deeper problems of strategy.

An armchair has been placed for Captain Parker apart from the other officers and nearest the lecturer's platform, so that the American guest may have a better chance than any one else to follow the exposition of a subject and see the diagrams. The work in the war college is severe and is from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. Part of it consists in hard riding over battlefields of France, the lecturer of the day explaining the operations of the troops that took part.

Pigeons at Washington Know the Market Days

IF YOU stand on the steps of the new National museum you will notice many pigeons on a street. The street divides the museum from the market, and on the far side there are rickety wagons, hitched to droopy horses—mostly white—and many chickens in the streets. And if you are lucky enough to meet on the steps a little, old man, who looks like a dried apple that had a soft to it, he will tell you something like this:

"Yes, those pigeons know market days as well as the hucksters do. They come from all over the city for the bits of grain and green stuff that get spilled or thrown away. And very pigeons strikes it on time, like his fellow a train at meal times on Salt Lake desert. How they get from the seashore precisely in time for cooks to fling garbage from the diners is something I can't tell you. All now is they are there. Some folks mislead angels on account of their wings, but the way I look at it is that the one who put all that clever, into bird creatures can be safely relied on to run this world and the without any advice from me.

Hear them roosters crowing! It's curious the way a rooster can put a lot of mind into a crow. Now you listen to that one. That ain't the rattle of a free rooster on his own walk. He's calling out in the only way he knows how to get somebody to come and free him from that wire crate. I don't know what's going to happen to him between this and some day, but he don't need any telling that he's in trouble. And you ever figure out about white horses? Now, you take that the curb over yonder. The highest half of those horses are because white horses don't take with rich people. You scarce white team in a fine carriage, but they are always pulling wagons and dump carts, and I judge they used to be fine war horses, to what I read in the history books when I was young and in my

you notice, a white horse mostly looks as if he was ready to drop. To think it was because their owners, having no regard for white worked them to death, but that isn't it. A white horse hangs his head like, because dark horses look down on him and it hurts his eye. I personally knew a white horse that—"

Sam Has a Veritable Mountain of Money

writers have pictured money growing on trees. And the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow has been the traditional will-o'-the-wisp for generations. But never before has there been a veritable mountain of money.

Nature has produced mountains whose buried wealth has enticed them to be called mountains of silver and gold, but it has remained for man to produce a mountain of greenbacks.

Three departments of the United States government have co-operated in this project, which required the united efforts of eleven experts for a period of three months, and, in addition, a cool million of Uncle Sam's macerated greenbacks for its surface.

The interior department, the agriculture and the treasury all joined forces over the arrangements for the dollar mountain, which is a model—a carefully made, perfectly correct and topographically correct working model—of Yosemite park, the government reservation in Mariposa county, California, on the western side of Sierra Nevada, which is the mecca for all westward-bound tourists who wish to feast their eyes upon its unequalled scenic grandeur.

This is the largest working model of its kind in the United States today. It is five feet by twelve and weighs 600 pounds. Some of the great difficulties involved in its construction may be appreciated when it is remembered that it is a perfect reproduction in miniature of a tract of meadows, mountains, chasms, lakes, streams, falls, precipices, forests, vast gorges and huge boulders that cover an area of about the proportions of the state of Rhode Island, for the Yosemite park comprises no less than 1,124 square miles.

United States to Take Census of National Bird Life

A CENSUS of all the birds of the United States is to be taken this summer by the federal government. In announcing this fact the other day the department of agriculture, which will supervise the work, urges co-operation of all bird lovers. The primary object of the census is the preservation of this important game.

The count of the bird population is to begin about May 20, and the department hopes to have the final results in hand by June 30. As a beginning 250 correspondents in all parts of the country will assist in taking the census, but voluntary observers are expected to furnish most of the data for this undertaking.

In the enumeration an effort is to be made to determine how many pairs of birds of each species breed within definite areas. By comparing these figures with those of subsequent censuses it will be possible to ascertain if state and federal laws are effective and if insectivorous birds are increasing or decreasing.

In the past, under mixed game regulations of various states, the department has been decreasing. Now that the birds have been protected, definite and uniform measures are being taken to follow up materially aid the department in its efforts to preserve the national resource.

TAMPICO DIRTY CITY

Discovery of Oil Makes Change in Mexican Town.

Despite Grimy Evidences of Commerce Port Still Is Central American and Interesting—Much Bustle Evident.

New York.—At last Tampico has become world known. On that cluster of bungalows, the old church and the jail built on a sand heap, the eyes of the world are focused.

The little port up the Panuco river, Tampico, ought never to have become a great city. It has none of the instincts of a city. If only oil had not been discovered the place would be today as it was 100 years ago—a lazy, fly bitten center of indolent industry. A point at the end of the river convenient for bartering purposes; somewhere where the Indian women could reach their canoes and exchange their fruits and dyo stuffs for cloth and gaudy finery.

Nowadays there are wharves there and a railway depot. Big steamers are alongside the quays and mechanics in dirty blue overalls make the landscape unpleasant to look upon. Where once there was nothing but the subtle murmur of exquisite heat, now there is the noise of locomotives and the jarring rattle of the gear of unloading steamers.

Apart from the unlabeled evidence of increasing prosperity, Tampico is still picturesque. Only its water side, its river front, has been "improved." Behind the smashing noise of the railway depot the old rattle of houses and drinking shops and churches remain. The place in its essence, as it were, is still Central American and beautiful. Dirty, yes, but splendidly dirty.

The old square remains, and by the square the green and white cathedral and the white painted, dirt incrustated jail. The jail is a romance in itself. It is a place unique. Perhaps the most democratic prison in all the world. There you can be lodged for some trivial offense—drunkenness, for instance—and then perhaps forgotten. If you have no friends or no money, you might remain there for months. Justice—or should we call it law?—in Tampico is a casual thing. Everything is a matter of tomorrow—the tomorrow which never comes. So that if you happen to be a prisoner without outside influence your stay may be a prolonged one—unless you have a few dollars with which to bribe the jailer. The worst of it is, your fellow prisoners will probably steal your clothes.

But, in spite of the wharves and the railway, the old native market remains. The people from upriver still come downstream in their dugout canoes and barter with the town folk. They exchange honey and sarsaparilla and luscious fruits for pulque, tobacco and cloth. Pulque, of course, is the native spirit—the fermented juice of the aloe—which produces quick drunkenness.

The little brown skinned, dark eyed children still gambol in happy nakedness beneath the old bridge; and there one still hears the music of the native instruments. The women from the far-off, unspoiled districts of the interior—copper colored, straight haired women, shy and beautiful—sing their curious songs as they unpack their bundles of fruit, while their manifold sun themselves and discuss cock-fights. Yes, the old bridge in old Tampico can always find gorgeous pictures—ever changing and entrancing, filled with flashing colors and infinitely brilliant.

But, of course, Tampico is important in spite of these things. It is called the oil metropolis of Mexico. Certainly it is the safest port on the Mexican gulf. The place commands most of the commerce of the City of Mexico, and all of that of a vast number of mining camps and centers of the interior.

American industry and capital have combined; together they have converted a remote, shallow and most treacherous roadstead into an important harbor. The engineers brought rocks from the mountains—70 miles away—and piled them out to sea. They built two great breakwaters, 1,000 feet apart, which extend to a distance of 7,000 feet into the gulf. Thus, after a million dollars or so was spent, Tampico, from being a little village seven miles up a surf guarded river, became a widely known port. The city is still seven miles up the Panuco river, but now big steamers cross its shattered hbr and anchor alongside the wharves which front its railway system.

The Panuco river is a curious stream, wide and swift flowing. It winds and twists, and is instinct with many weird currents. Navigators are not in love with it. As a matter of fact it is easier for big ships to hit one of its banks than to keep within the fairway.

That he was able to take a directing part in the operation was due to the use of local anesthetics.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By O. E. SELLERS, Director of Evening Department The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 14

THE FRIEND OF SINNERS.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:1-10; 19:1-10. GOLDEN TEXT—"I came not to call the righteous but sinners." Mark 2:17.

The first section of our lesson is the beginning of a new parable (see R. V.) and contains one of the Master's best-known parables. Immediately preceding this is the parable of the unjust judge and the importunate widow. We are plainly told (v. 9) why the Master spoke this parable. It is easy to say that those who trusted in their own righteousness and "set all others at naught" (R. V.) were the Pharisees, but such is not the case; and this parable is a warning to us, lest we also trust our own righteousness (Isa. 64:6). Using this particular class as a background, Jesus paints, in words of simple grandeur, a picture quite familiar throughout the ages. In it he reveals the falseness of human standards and declares the judgment of heaven. The contrast is vivid. Let us look at (1) the Pharisee. The illuminating phrase is in the words "he prayed with himself" (v. 11). Ostentatiously the Pharisee separated himself from their fellow men and this separation seems to have extended even into his prayer life, and he is withdrawn from God also. This is an appalling picture of the man who trusts only himself. Examine his prayer and we see the supposed prayer is really a psalm of self-exaltation. It is true he begins by ascribing it to the Deity, but he ascribes no praise to God, no thankfulness for blessings received; indeed, he ignores God throughout after the introduction. On the other hand, his only recognition of other men is that of contempt for them. His is concerned altogether with his own excellencies and with the delinquencies of others. "I am not as the rest of men" (v. 11 R. V.). He extols proper virtues of morality, religiousness, orthodoxy and generosity, but went away unsaved.

Humility of Heart.

(2) The Publican regarded himself as "the sinner" (v. 13 R. V. margin). He knew he was a great, an irreligious offender against law and grace. He had sacrificed everything to acquire money. He comes with no outward show except an abundant evidence of the shame and humility of his heart. He also was excluded from men but not from God. Burdened with the sense of his sin, he casts himself upon the mercy of God. He is absolutely devoid of any trust in himself, any contempt for others, and makes a straight, earnest, passionate abandonment of himself and his need to God. "He goes away 'justified' (Judged right). Why? Because he had taken the right place, a sinner's place before God, and found pardon. No one who claims a place before God because he is a righteous man will be justified in his sight. The true way to God is the one of the Publican, not that of the Pharisee.

II. The Second Section is a story and deals with an individual case, Zaccheus, who was a "chief Publican," Jesus sought him (see Golden Text), whereas Zaccheus was animated by curiosity, and the writer informs us he was small of stature, hence the necessity of climbing the sycamore tree. He went up the tree because of curiosity, he came down because of conviction. He wanted to see this man in the center of the crowd and was amazed to hear Jesus call him by name and with the authority of a king commands his friendship and hospitality.

Must Yield Wealth.

Zaccheus was rich, dishonest, dissatisfied, but desperately in earnest, and a man of prompt decision. The estimation of his fellow-citizens is indicated by v. 7. Notwithstanding all of this Zaccheus was not so wedded to his money as to let it keep him out of the kingdom. In chapter 18 we read of the rich man who "lacked one thing." He was lost—"went away"—because he would not yield his wealth (see also 18:26, 27). What took place within the house of Zaccheus we are not told, but for the Master to enter was looked upon either as amazing, ignorance of Zaccheus' character or else extreme carelessness concerning the maintenance of his own character. Jesus was dealing with one man, not the multitude, hence he leaves them to their amazement. While this is true, yet we can surmise something of that interview by the result (v. 8) for Zaccheus seems to have made a public avowal of his ethical and moral change of heart. Note the steps: (1) He "sought to see Jesus"; John 3:14, 15; Isa. 45:22. (2) He was very much in earnest, "climbed a sycamore tree," Luke 13:24. (3) He made no delay, "make haste" Isa. 55:6. The result was that of great blessing to the people and joy in the heart of Zaccheus. (4) He was obedient, joyously and promptly. The genuineness of his transformation was evidenced by the way it affected his pocketbook. He made abundant restitution and gave bountifully to the poor. The love of God shed abroad in the heart of a miserly, selfish man or church will promote honesty both to God and man, and make men large-hearted, self-forgetting, ministering saints. Prov. 11:24; Rom. 12:13; II Cor. 8:5. It was as "Son of Man" that Jesus went to the house of Zaccheus. God's pattern, God's man. He made no reference to race, nor to caste. His purpose was to reach a "LOST" man and "was for such he came into the world, to 'save the lost'."

From the combined parable and story we can read the lesson that Jesus is the friend of sinners and not of sin.

SHOULD GET LARGER CROPS

American Farmers Might Largely Increase Their Production Through Scientific Methods.

Our Pennsylvania Dutch are good farmers, but not so good as their relatives in Germany. For every bushel of wheat a Pennsylvania farmer produces from one acre the German grows two and a tenth bushels.

His farm is small, but the man who dwells beyond the Rhine makes each acre produce exactly twice as many potatoes as do our farmers.

The man who bows to a kaiser instead of a president extracts just a half more oats and over a third more barley and about 60 per cent more rye from each acre than does the imprudent American.

The man who has but a dollar can live for a long time on it, whereas the prodigal can waste a $10 bill on one dinner. The German has so little ground that he makes it work doubly hard.

When the United States has 200,000,000 population our farm production an acre will likely have doubled from sheer necessity.—Public Ledger.

HER MOTHER-IN-LAW Proved a Wise, Good Friend.

A young woman out in Ia. found a wise, good friend in her mother-in-law. Jokes notwithstanding. She writes: "I was greatly troubled with my stomach, complexion was blotchy and yellow. After meals I often suffered sharp pains and would have to lie down. My mother often told me it was the coffee I drank at meals. But when I'd quit coffee I'd have a severe headache."

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She laughed and told me it was easy to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum.

"I began to use Postum as soon as I got home, and now we have the same good 'coffee' (Postum) every day, and I have no more trouble. Indigestion is a thing of the past, and my complexion has cleared up beautifully."

"My grandmother suffered a great deal with her stomach. Her doctor told her to leave off coffee. She then took tea but that was just as bad. "She finally was induced to try Postum which she has used for over a year. She traveled during the winter over the greater part of Iowa, visiting, something she had not been able to do for years. She says she owes her present good health to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages. Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

HAPPENINGS in the BIG CITIES

Central Park Visitor Said He Saw a Goat Smoke

NEW YORK.—Bob Horton, assistant keeper of the zoo in Central park, was entering the lion house the other afternoon when a young man staggered across the walk and leaned against him for support.

"What's the trouble?" Horton asked.
"I think I have seen something. I should have a doctor," the agitated visitor said.
The young man explained then that, unless he had been the victim of an illusion, Horton was needed behind the animal house.
"Have the elephants broken loose?" Horton asked.
"No," the visitor said. "But I think I saw a goat smoking a cigar."

On the way to the lot back of the elephant house Horton met Bill Snyder, the head keeper.

"What's this I hear about a smoking goat?" Horton asked his chief.
Snyder was perplexed by the question, but, with Horton, he followed the visitor who had discovered the zoological phenomenon.

In the lot was Perfecto, a large ram, presented to the menageries by the manager of a circus. Perfecto was standing in the center of the enclosure. There was a far-away look upon his face, and he was holding in his mouth half of a cigar. In telling the story later, Snyder said that the cigar was burning and that Perfecto was puffing away at it in evident enjoyment. Snyder took one look at the goat and then he felt in the pocket of his vest, where he usually carries his cigars. The pocket was empty.

"You thief!" he cried, shaking a fist at the goat.
He remembered petting Perfecto just a few minutes before, and he was of the opinion that the goat had stolen his cigar. The animal, he explained, had been named Perfecto because of his fondness for tobacco. He had been taught to smoke by the employees of the circus.

"But, Bill, how did he get a light?" Horton asked.
"That's nothing," said Snyder. "You remember in 1910 the case of the weeping grampus?"
But Bob had fled.

Substitute for Young Bride Fined for Forgery

NEWPORT, R. I.—If Hattie Belmar of this city ever gets another chance to act as a substitute for a blushing bride who is too young to get a marriage license it is more than likely that before accepting the position she will demand to be introduced to the real bride. It is not by any means certain that she will take the job at all, but if the bride is so constituted that Miss Belmar's clothes do not fit her she will have to look elsewhere for a substitute, for Miss Belmar won't even discuss the proposal. As a matter of fact, she was sent to jail.

When Albert E. Evans, a cook at the naval station, decided to marry Alfreda Guilmond and told her so he was looking into her eyes. When he considered her from afar and noted her size and youthful appearance he felt that there was no chance of getting a license to marry. She is only seventeen and doesn't show her age. So he spoke to Hattie Belmar about it, and she said she would gladly get a license to be used by the youthful bride.

They got it. Albert thanked Hattie and married Alfreda.
Alfreda's parents were amazed and went to Rev. Arthur Crane, who had performed the ceremony, to demand an explanation. All that he knew was that there had been a license and everything looked all right.

Then the parents moved on the city hall. The city clerk, with argument, said that he had never given a license to any seventeen-year-old girl and would like to see her. Alfreda, the bride, got the clothes of Hattie, the substitute, to deceive the city clerk.

The bride is short, the substitute is tall, and the clothes looked as if they had been thrown on the bride from an upper window.
City clerk wise; parents angry; police alert; bridegroom garrulous; substitute arrested.

When Miss Belmar was arraigned in court, charged with forging the license, she was fined $15, with costs of $2.60. She remarked that she considered that sum as a very tidy one and had no idea where she could get it so easily. So the bridegroom went calling on friends to make up enough to smooth over the entire wedding.

Birmingham Will Aid "Spooners" in the Parks

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—All embargoes heretofore maintained against "spooning" in the public parks of this city have been lifted, and so long as the habit is confined to legitimate lovemaking, whether it be done in the dark or under the shadow of the electric lights, there is to be no police interference.

For several years young men and women have been complaining that their courting privileges were unreasonably restricted, and many protests were lodged with the city commission against the police.

Judge A. O. Lane, commissioner of public justice, determined to change the regulations. He declares that the city will offer every protection and encouragement to "legitimate spooning" in the parks this summer.

"Legitimate spooning," he means lovemaking. Every engaged and courting couple will be allowed the use of the parks.

The police are instructed to watch the parks and see that real lovers are not interfered with. Orders are given to stop all really questionable conduct.

Commissioner of Streets and Parks Weatherly says plenty of benches will be provided in the parks. He declares the city has no right to regulate love affairs, and his department of streets and parks will pursue the policy of "hands off" from these delicate and sacred matters.

Mrs. Wilson Searight, head of the welfare department that protects and assists young girls, believes the new policy of protecting lovers is all right in principle, and she will do her part to help them.

"Honesty the Best Policy" Brought Into Play

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The old slogan, "Honesty is the best policy," was brought into play the other night at the union station when a pocketbook containing $520 was found by a young man, who said he was formerly a hell boy in a St. Louis hotel. The owner of the pocketbook proved to be a wealthy cattle owner of Oklahoma City, who refused to give his name.

According to the bellhop, he had arrived from Chicago on an evening train, and not knowing the city, had stopped in the station to inquire the location of a hotel when he espied the pocketbook under a bench. After examining it and finding the large amount of money and one of the ranchman's cards, he began to call out the name which the card bore. At the first call the cattle owner responded and grew very excited when he discovered his loss, explaining that he was on his way to Buffalo to be married.

The bellhop then presented the pocketbook to its owner, and after the ranchman had satisfied himself that the contents were all there he proceeded to give the finder a five-cent lead pencil and a lecture that "Honesty is the best policy."

"Huh," observed the boy as the cattleman made his way to a train, "tis a hard, hard world."

NOTHING ELSE TO DO

By AMELIA COHEN.

Miss Pearlle Fattershall dabbed at her forehead with a wadded handkerchief and ran her finger around the collar of her blouse in an irritated way.

"Geel!" she breathed to the stenographer from across the hall who had brought her lunch over to Miss Fattershall's office, where there was a breeze. "This weather is fierce! This is the sort of thing that makes me hate to work for a living. I want to put dynamite bombs under all the hammocks wherein swing languid ladies in lace frocks reading the latest thriller and getting away with husbands while father or husband does the tolling down town! Yes, I do!"

"Why, I never heard you talk so!" cried the stenographer from across the hall. "You've always been perfectly contented!"

"The heat of us have our off days," said Miss Fattershall gloomily. "When it gets to be 110 in the shade I generally abandon my noble theories and become a lady anarchist! Just as soon as it gets cool you will find me back at the old stand preaching patience, contentment and contempt for the idle rich!"

"Even now," went on Miss Fattershall, "with the perspiration trickling down my complexion in little ditches I can still remember that the idle rich have their troubles. Why, it was just because she had nothing else to do that my boss's daughter, Genevieve Pye, picked up her foreign count—and believe me, she has been busy ever since! Her daily program has been something like this: Seven a. m., cable papa for funds. Eight a. m., see Giuseppe's creditors and stave them off. Nine a. m., cable to see if papa has got the first cable and urge haste. Ten a. m., explain to Giuseppe why I cannot pay his new gambling debts. Eleven a. m., cable papa for additional funds. Noon, see more of Giuseppe's creditors. After lunch pawn my diamond earrings and pay the grocery bill. Two p. m., cable papa for more—"

"Goodness!" gasped the stenographer from across the hall, "if it is as bad as that I should think she would pack up and come home!"

"Oh, dear no!" explained Miss Fattershall. "She likes too well to be spoken of and to as 'countess.' She can stand eight months of horrors over there just to pass four months in Chicago each year and have all her old girl friends turn green with envy and rage at her note paper with Giuseppe's gorgeous coat of arms on it and at the way the butlers announce, 'The Countess di Filippa Flazzanza!' whenever she enters a room!"

"Think how you'd feel after you'd gone to school with a girl and knew she didn't know any more than you did and you had swiped all her beads in those days without any effort at all—think how it would make you feel if your name was Mary Smith and hers sounded like the whole alphabet set to rattle!"

"I don't say that it's a brainy form of amusement, but Genevieve appears to find it worth while! At least she endures Giuseppe for the sake of it. I saw him at the wedding and—well, I wouldn't change places with Genevieve, not even with all this hot weather!"

"And again," went on Miss Fattershall meditatively, "there's Mrs. Pye herself! She's got the house on the boulevard and the summer place at Lake Geneva and the hunting lodge up in the mountains and the yacht to look after and, come to think of it, that must take some time! Geel! Wouldn't you like to feel that twice every year you had to see that nine hundred and forty-seven rooms were all cleaned and that there were enough sheets and pillowcases for a young hotel with the monograms just right and the refrigerator on the boat was stocked for instant sailing to any spot and that buttons were all on Papa Pye's 60 suits of pajamas and that you hadn't forgotten any of the hundreds of birthdays and anniversaries on your list and that Christmas was looming up ahead with another list and all the winter's program of swell dinner parties to make! Besides getting your wardrobe of 50 dresses in between!"

"Mercy goodness!" Miss Fattershall gasped and surveyed the stenographer from across the hall with round eyes. "Doesn't it make you ache all over to think about it? And every blessed thing I have to do after working all day is to hustle home and get into fresh clothes and hang up my other dress and walk to the ice cream parlor with Jimmy in the cool of the evening! Saa-a-y! I guess we don't have it so bad after all!"

"No," agreed the stenographer from across the hall quite cheerfully, "it looks as though we had a soft snap!"

Secret Is Out.

While roaming around the second-hand bookshop we ran into a young woman who aspired to be a leading literary light and possibly the authoress of next season's best seller. And to further that end she was hunting for books that had outrun their copy-right. She was going to take ideas from them, change them about and improve the plots and people. This, she had been told by some one "who knows all about it," was the way every one succeeded! And then, ingenuously, "How ever did those people manage who had to make up their own stories?" Staggering thought, that is!

SUCCEEDS IN CANADA

An interesting and successful American farmer, Lew Palmer, of Staveley, Alta., passed through the city today. Mr. Palmer came from Duluth, Minn., just ten years ago, and brought with him four cows and three horses—and that was his all. He homesteaded in the Staveley district, and today has 480 acres of land, 33,000 worth of implements, 34 Percheron horses, made 1,000 out of hogs last year, raised 7,000 bushels of wheat, 6,000 bushels of oats, 12 acres of potatoes, and 18 tons of onions. His farm and stock is worth $30,000, and he made it all in ten years.—Exchange.—Advertisement.

Embarrassing for Rector.

A rector of a certain English church is a somewhat portly gentleman, and a little inclined to be pompous. He owns a small terrier called Rags.

On one occasion last summer Rags escaped from his guardian and wandered into the church just as his master was facing the congregation, holding up the alms basin in both hands. That was Rags' opportunity. He made a bee line for the chancel, and pausing before his master, whose eyes were pliously elevated to the ceiling, he ant up and bugged!

Delight of the wicked and horror of the pious!

Incubation of China's Egg.

In its present form the constitution of China abolishes the cabinet and converts its members, with a single exception, into departmental chiefs. The exception is that of secretary of state, who is continued in charge of foreign affairs under the title of "kuo-wuching," and whose office is to be organized after the model of the United States. Other clauses debar the legislature from participation in the making of high appointments or the negotiation of treaties and establish a consultative board, with which the president is to determine all financial matters. Last, but by no means least, the president is declared the supreme ruler.

Language Not Likely to Last.

Mistral, the great Provencal poet, whose death was announced lately, has been likened to Robert Burns for the work he did. But Burns' task was child's play compared with Mistral's. The Scottish poet found his language fully grown and completely alive; Mistral had to create his means of expression. Provencal had lost every resemblance to a literary tongue, and the new poet-patriot had to mold it afresh, to recreate and to build up on the ruins left by the vineyard and the farm. "Our Provencal," said Mistral, "was a country lass, ragged and wild." She is now a wonderfully beautiful creature; but it is doubtful whether all the genius of Mistral can keep her alive. The educational reformer in France does not like such irregular beauty.

Misfortune is no respecter of persons—and neither is fortune, for the matter of that.

HOME LOOKED GOOD TO HIM

Boston Man Returns From Tunis After a Thrilling Experience With Arabs.

There never was a man who showed more happiness to touch foot on native soil than Percival Roberts of Boston, graduate of Oxford college, England, and an alumnus of the Harvard law school, who arrived at Boston from Naples. Mr. Roberts had hurried to Italy after having been chased on camel back by wild Tripolitan handits, who swooped down on him and his party's pack camels and household goods when they were camping on the border of the desert south of Sfax, in the interior of Tunis.

Italian soldiers had driven a flying squadron of untamed Arab horsemen and cut-throats across the Tunis border, and when the pack of infuriated savages caught sight of the Roberts party it charged the camp with wild yells and blazing rifles.

Roberts embarked on the first ship of the desert he could locate in his frantic rush for a conveyance and swayed and rolled on camel-back over the dry sands of the desert for ten miles before he could make his getaway. His three friends, two Frenchmen and an Englishman, got off in different directions, all aboard the swift-racing camels which had carried them into camp.

The New Dances.
Billy Sunday, the remarkable evangelist, was asked after his successful Philadelphia season what he thought of the new dances.

"What do I think of the new dances?" said Mr. Sunday, with a laugh. "Well, let me tell you a story. A young man and a girl in evening dress sat in a conservatory. A fountain trickled and gurgled in a marble basin before them. Palms drooped their long leaves over them.

"The light was dim. Distant music sounded softly.
"Suddenly the young man, overcome by the girl's beauty, seized her in his arms and crushed her madly to his breast.

"Why, Mr. Trevanion," she said, putting her white hand on his shirt bosom and pushing him coldly away, "you forget yourself. This sort of thing isn't proper—here."

"So saying, she took his arm and they went out on to the ballroom floor and indulged in a mazurka."

On many farms in Western Canada in 1913, some yields being reported as high as 60 bushels per acre. As high as 100 bushels were recorded in some districts for oats.

50 bushels for barley and from 10 to 20 bu. for flax. J. Keys arrived in the country 3 years ago from Denmark with very little means. He homesteaded, worked hard, is now the owner of 350 acres of land in 1913 had a crop of 250 acres, which will realize him about $4,000. His wheat weighed 68 lbs. to the bushel and averaged over 35 bushels to the acre.

Thousands of similar instances might be related of the homesteaders in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"It's quite a heavy shower we're having," he said, cheerily, to the man who had entered with his clothes soaked and his umbrella dripping.

"Yes, sir," replied the stranger, testily. "It is a heavy shower; but you have failed to remark also the interesting facts that the shower is falling downward from above, that it's a wet shower, and that it is raining on both sides of the street. Also you have neglected to observe that this is the year 1914, that the earth is round, and that there are four seasons each year. But I'm obliged to you for your information, about the weather."

Preaching by the pastor at 10:45 a. m. The first of the Sunday night union meetings will be held in this church at 7:30 p. m. Rev. J. M. Lateral of the Third Street M. E. Church will preach the sermon. You are cordially invited to both of these services.
M. S. CLARK, Pastor.

Union Services.
The following pastors and congregations have agreed to hold union services each Sunday evening during the summer: The two Presbyterian, the two Methodist, and the Episcopal. The first service will be at the Southern Methodist Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A most cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Central Presbyterian Church.
Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. J. B. Wood, Supt.
Preaching at 10:45 a. m. Union services at the M. E. Church South at 7:30 p. m.
Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited.
R. L. BENN, Pastor.

Christian Church.
As the minister expects to go on his vacation next week an extra attendance is urged for tomorrow. We hope to hear from many of our members at last.
Regular services both Sunday morning and Sunday evening at the regular hours. We are not opposing the union meeting but as a church we do not care to decide now to have no evening services. Therefore evening services as usual.
A. F. STALL, Minister.

First Baptist Church.
"Deeds and Lions" is the subject for the morning service and "The Mill Can Surely Grind With the Water That Has Passed" will be the evening sermon. The pastor will preach at both hours.
Sunday School at 9:30 a. m., with Superintendent Greenlee in charge. Let every member attend and bring one with you to enjoy the lesson and music.
The Young People's meeting from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. in the Sunday School room.

Good music and fellowship for all who worship with us. Visitors to our city are especially invited to attend these services.
H. B. WILHOYTE, Pastor.

Third Street M. E. Church.
Until the painters have finished the auditorium all services will be held in the Sunday School room which has just been painted and thoroughly renovated. This room will hold two hundred people and is as comfortable a place as can be found this hot weather. A large supply of palm fans has been provided for the comfort of the worshippers.
There will be preaching tomorrow at 10:45 a. m. by the pastor. At 7:30 the congregation will join in the union service at the First M. E. Church South.

Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. I. M. Lane, Supt. Children's Day practice at 2 p. m.
Epworth League devotional service at 6:45 p. m., led by Prof. C. S. Dale.
A cordial welcome to all. We want you to worship with us.
J. M. LATERAL, Pastor.

Williams of Frankfort, Ky., as president, Dr. Henry Allen Boyd, of Nashville, Tenn., will be one of the most prominent speakers during the convention. The object of the convention shall be to forward and promote the Sunday School work, to establish Sunday Schools where there are none, to promote and encourage intellectual, moral and religious culture among the people generally. Any assistance from the public to help entertain the visitors and friends will be highly appreciated by both pastor and congregation.
REV. R. JACKSON.

9 TO 2

Ironton Easily Cops First Game of Series From Maysville—Thompson Poorly Supported.

In a game featured by very poor fielding on one side and good fielding on the other, Maysville lost to Ironton yesterday by the score of 9 to 2.

Thompson started the game for Maysville and pitched a pretty good game of ball, but the fielding behind him was very miserable, most of the players seemed to be taking little naps. What should have been easy put-out went as singles and what should have been singles went as two and three base hits. Griffin batted for Thompson in the seventh and then took his place in the box.

Charley Ellis Took a Snooze in the Ninth.

McWhorter pitched for Ironton and should have had a shut-out, but through Kuhn's liberality the locals managed to get a couple of tallies.

The box score follows:

RIGHT OFF THE BAT.

Scout Billy Doyle witnessed the game from the bleachers.
Ironton is the attraction again this afternoon. Game called at 3:15 o'clock.

Notwithstanding he had two errors, Frank Chausser, former Maysville player, put up a nice game at short. He had four put-outs and five assists on five hard chances.

In the second inning Pezold got a home run on what should have been a single. He hit a bounder to Ellis, who let the ball go through him and Pezold skinned around at the sacks before the ball was recovered.

Umpire Kuhn also had his off-day yesterday and his umpiring was very unsatisfactory. In the seventh inning Badel of the home club got a base on balls on a very bad decision. Kuhn had called two balls and two strikes and on the third ball, which should have been called a strike, Kuhn said, "Take a walk."

Donovan, who has a very badly crippled foot, put up a good game in the outfield. He had eight putouts, also one assist, a perfect throw to third, catching Chausser, who tried to go to this sack on a long fly. Donovan's playing never seems sensational on account of the fact that he always takes things so easily. He is a perfect judge of a fly ball and rarely has to catch a ball above his head. Donovan would have had a pair of hits also had it not been for the fact that he has a game foot.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Murphy quietly celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with their family present last evening.

Deafness cannot be cured by local applications, as they never reach the seat of the disease. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear or imperfect hearing, and when it is inflamed in the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; therefore, no matter how long deafness has been on, it can be cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for anyone who can cure deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Bell's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Electric Shop

Things Electrical and Year-Round Comfort

How delightful is the magic of electricity, especially now bringing coolness and contentment on sultry summer days. It takes work right from ones hands and performs household tasks through the medium of Electrical appliances. Nothing original in the name Electric Shop, yet everything new and up-to-date in Electrical Merchandise.

Who is not attracted by the thought of doing things by wire. And how many things there are—Cooking, Washing, Ironing, Fanning, Sewing—all are done the Electric Way in many homes.

You have been attracted by the bright and cheerful interior of the Electric Shop of Messrs. Hill and Bro. as you passed on the car or to the Post Office in the evening.

With their many fans a-whizzing, you will be more attracted and just as interested if you stopped inside, as you are cordially invited to do.

At the outset we want to thank them for their enthusiastic co-operation in working for a better and brighter Maysville.
